O'Brien Fellowships 2011

Faculty of Law, McGill University

CALL FOR APPLICATIONS

The O'Brien Fellowship was established in 2005 through a very generous gift from David O'Brien for outstanding Masters or Doctoral students studying in the area of human rights and legal pluralism in the Faculty of Law, McGill University. McGill's graduate programs in law are the most extensive in Canada. Courses draw upon the civilian and common law traditions, but also include diverse legal traditions, legal theory, international law, environmental law, health law, human rights law, comparative private and public law, and air and space law.

O'Brien Fellows become members of the Centre for Human Rights and Legal Pluralism, a focal point for innovative legal and interdisciplinary research, dialogue, and outreach on human rights and legal pluralism. The O'Brien Fellowships are valued at $25,000 per annum. Fellows pay fees at the level of Quebec residents and receive one travel grant per year to present their research results at an academic conference.

Successful applicants will have an outstanding academic record and a strong research proposal in the field of human rights and legal pluralism. The deadline for O'Brien Fellowship applications is January 14th, 2011. Further information and application forms are available on the web at <http://www.mcgill.ca/humanrights/obrienfellowship/>.

Applicants who are not currently enrolled in the LL.M. or D.C.L. program at McGill must also file an application for admission to one of these programs by January 14th, 2011. For further information about admission to the graduate law program, See <http://www.mcgill.ca/law-gradprograms/>.
