Content (Syllabus outline):

Lectures consist of two parts, general micro and macroeconomic analysis and analysis of the topics of interest in the world in general and in Europe and Slovenia, with special emphasis on the shifts of economic doctrines.

1. Micro and macroeconomic analysis (markets, consumers, producers, market equilibrium, relationship between the goods and factor markets, labor markets, competition, monopolies, competitive market, market failures, regulation, externalities, public goods, growth and rate of growth, economic policies, aggregate demand and supply, employment, unemployment and inflation, macroeconomic policy, fiscal and monetary policy) ponudba, zaposlenost, brezposelnost in inflacija, makroekonomska politika, fiskalna politika, denarna politika)

2. Aktualna dogajanja v slovenskem, evropskem in svetovnem gospodarstvu. Študijski program se v tem delu prilagaja aktualnim gospodarskim problemom kot so na primer finančne krize, gibanja cen surovin in hrane, lizbonska strategija, širjenje EU, privatizacija zdravstva, šolstva in socialne varnosti itd.. Natančnejša predstavitev tem vnaprej ni mogoča.

2. Current affairs in Slovenian, European and world economy. The syllabus will be adapted to the current affairs, for example financial crisis, Lisbon strategy, EU enlargement, privatization of medical services, education and social security, etc. We cannot predict in advance the topics that will be covered.
